Biographical Note

Everett G. "Dean" Earl was born in Brooklyn, NY on April 10, 1910. He began playing piano on his own as a boy, and toured with a vaudeville act in the late 1930s. Earl played with the Army Air Corps service band during World War II, and afterwards entered Berklee College of Music (then called Schillinger House) on the GI Bill in 1953 to study music. After graduating in 1956, he became a mainstay of the Boston jazz scene in the days of the Hi-Hat Club, Connolly's, and Wally's Paradise. Earl played shows with jazz legends such as Charlie Parker, Ella Fitzgerald, Count Basie, Billie Holiday, and Sonny Stitt. He joined the Berklee faculty in 1961.

Throughout the years, Earl taught hundreds of piano students - among them Bruce Hornsby and Cyrus Chestnut. Many of his other students have enjoyed distinguished careers and several are current Berklee faculty members. Earl taught until shortly before his passing on January 16th, 2002.

Scope and Contents Note

It is believed that these pedagogical arrangements were created and/or compiled by distinguished pianist, faculty member, and alumnus Dean Earl as teaching aids for Berklee Piano Department courses in harmony and piano performance. The collection is comprised of 3 cartons containing photocopies of the original mimeographs on acid-free paper. The arrangements themselves consist mainly of popular music and jazz standards, as well as musical exercises.

Arrangement

Dean Earl's pedagogical arrangements are individually foldered within 3 record cartons and are arranged in the original order received. The arrangements were originally stored in hanging files housed in filing cabinets, and the original folder names were transcribed verbatim as item names (including some apparent typographical or grammatical errors). Acronyms including 'CHO' 'PNO' and 'T 4 2' were used, however their exact meanings are unclear. Some duplication is found throughout the collection. Some folders may also contain multiple items.
